SUNYAC Suspends Fall Season of Competition

Late this afternoon, the State University of New York Athletic Conference (SUNYAC), to which SUNY Oneonta belongs, announced the suspension of fall sports competition in response to ongoing health and safety concerns related to COVID-19. In addition, winter conference and non-conference schedules will be delayed until Jan. 1, 2021.

Read the announcement here.

The NCAA's newest resocialization guidelines require frequent COVID testing of student-athletes, which would be extremely complicated. With the well being of students in mind, the SUNYAC presidents, in consultation with the SUNYAC Board of Directors, chose to forego competition until it is unquestionably safe.

Campus Restrooms: What You Need to Know

You might be asking — How do I keep myself safe from COVID-19 when using the restrooms on campus? Facilities is taking the following measures to ensure your safety when nature calls:

- All bathrooms will be cleaned twice a day and cleaning staff will sweep through buildings, sanitizing high-touch surfaces throughout each day. If a bathroom needs particular attention, please let the cleaning department know.
- Maintenance and operations will ensure that toilet exhaust fans are well-maintained and will operate 24/7.
- Forced-air hand dryers have been temporarily disabled and paper towel dispensers have been installed. This is to minimize the distribution of water droplets from hand drying.

There are certain protocols you can follow in the restroom that will also help prevent contact with the virus:

- Washing hands with soap and water for a minimum of 20 seconds is very effective, as the virus is vulnerable to soap. In fact, this is more effective than the use of hand sanitizers.
- Always wear a mask when you enter a bathroom and observe the number of occupants in the space. If you aren't comfortable, wait outside or find an alternate location.
- There have been recent news reports on concerns over toilet flushing. There is very little evidence to suggest that toilet flushing is a source of transmission of COVID-19. If you are concerned, we suggest that you not enter a cubicle that has very recently been occupied.

Visit this webpage for more details on return-to-work protocols. Should you have questions about any of these protocols, contact Peter Booth at 607-436-2021 or Peter.Booth@oneonta.edu.

Raw Cookie Dough Recipe

Rebecca Harrington

This has been my go to plant based protein on hot days.

Raw Cookie Dough

In a food processor blend:

1 can of drained chickpeas

About ½ cup of nut butter (I never measure, I just throw in a few heaping spoonfuls)

A tablespoon of chia seeds (optional, but as I don't eat fish it's a great replacement for Omega 3 fatty acids)

A few tablespoons of maple syrup (from the farmers market of course)

2 tsp of vanilla extract (or flavoring of choice)

After its all whizzed up I add a third of a cup of mini chocolate chips, because I'm always up for a healthy way to eat chocolate, and it's dark chocolate so polyphenols!

Anyway, its awesome if you are a raw cookie dough kind of person, it has fiber and protein and I find it deeply satisfying so I thought I would share.
